A Representative and Champion of American Art Taste!

PROSPECTUS FOR 1875

EIGHTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE,

THE ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA.

Issued Monthly.

A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out.

THE necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the understand our great artists, and who deserve recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed every attempt in this country to establish an art journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art, but soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to have it were so much the public at once rallied with earnest zeal to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is a work of art, choice specimens of pure, high, and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and tint. Although each succeeding number will more than fulfill the promises in regard to the future, the real value and beauty of The Aldine will be best appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publishers may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, The Aldine is a unique and original enterprise—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times the cost; and then, there is the Chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a correct and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of The Aldine, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign markets, giving to the critics all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic individuality of American scenery, original with The Aldine, is an important feature of its engraved plates, and a rare merit. Especial attention is directed to the missionary treatment of details known to be avoided by any inferior page. The juxtaposition of landscape, animals, figure, and such natural subjects, contain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confined the artist too closely to a single style of subjects. The literature of The Aldine is a fitting and graceful accompaniment, worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest in the work.

PREMIUM FOR 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention,

"MAN'S UNSELFISH FRIEND."

Will be welcome in every home. Everybody owns such a dog, and the portrait is executed so to seize the life, that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (he lives in Brooklyn) barks at it. Although so natural, no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is entitled to a unique, and entitled to all the privileges of

THE ALDINE ART UNION.

The Union owns the originals of all The Aldine pictures, which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, handsome prizes, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to old subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

TERMS.

1 Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE 1 year, the Chromo and the Art Union, $6.00 per annum, in advance.

No charge for postage.

Specimen Copies of The Aldine, 50 cents.

FOOD FOR LEAN WOMEN.—If any one wishes to grow fleshy, a pint of milk taken before retiring at night will soon cover the scraggiest bones. Although now-a-days we see a great many fleshy females, there are many lean and lank ones who sigh for the fashionable measure of plumpness, and who would be vastly improved in health and appearance could their figures be rounded with good solid flesh. Nothing is more coveted by thin women than a full figure, and nothing will so rouse the ire and poke the scandal of one of these 'clipper-builds' as the consciousness of plumpness in a rival. In cases of fever and summer complaint, milk is now given with excellent results. The idea that milk is "feverish" has been exploded, and it is now the physician's great reliance in bringing through typhoid patient, or those in too low a state to be nourished by solid food. It is a mistake to stint the milk pitcher. Take more milk and buy less meat. Look to your milk-men, have large sized, well filled milk pitcher on the table each meal, and you will also have sound flesh and light doctors' bills.

A MILLIONAIRE PAUPER.

A letter to the New York Tribune, dated New Orleans September 30th says:

Outside of politics the sensation in New Orleans just now in the old octoroon Francois Lacroix, last week a millionaire, to-day a friendless beggar, sold out for taxes which he could but would not pay.

He was owner of properties in the city and adjoining parishes, stores, dwellings, and plantations, paying two months ago an aggregate monthly rental of more than $4,000.—Yesterday I saw him sitting on the steps of the auctioneer's rostrum, smoking a vile cigar and wagging his vacant old head while the last remains of his fortune was being wafted away on the echo of the crier's voice.

Lacroix's history is singularly interesting. A quarter of a century ago he was the fashionable tailor of New Orleans. The popular shop of 'Cordieville & Lacroix' was on St Charles street, one or two doors below the present site of the St Charles Hotel. Both were colored men. Cordieville, was a flashy, showy fellow, quite an exquisite, prone to brawls and duels, but a polished artist in his line. He affected France very greatly; had a chateau near Paris, where, during the greater part of the year, he used to maintain an establishment of great luxury and splendor. Finally he withdrew from New Orleans to spend the remainder of his life in his favorite country. Lacroix was a man of different taste and habits. An octoroon like Cordieville, he was, unlike him, penurious, frugal, plodding. Once a year he went to La Belle France for five or six weeks, and wild stories are told of his extravagance and debauchery on those occasions; but here at home he lived in positive meanness. His house on Dumaine street, in the French quarter, where by the way he still lives, is an old colonial structure, built of wood, with high roof and long dormer windows rickety, infirm and uninviting. It is scarcely better than the average plantation cabin, certainly not half so cheerful and attractive.

Making immense sums and spending nothing, putting his accumulations into property that rose every day in value, he grew rich by almost magical advances. A tailor's shop would scarcely seem the cradle of a Crœsus, yet in 1861 Lacroix was more than a wealthy man. He had properties in every growing quarter of the city, mortgages on a score of plantations, and rentals of princely magnitude. He was Lacroix the millionaire.

How his tax trouble commenced no one seems exactly to understand. I fancy he has always been a 'tax-payer!' The city books shows some very old delinquencies. The chronicle of the city's litigations record a thousand hard-fought battles, wherein his victories, like those of Porsenne, were barely short of ruin. Apparently he never paid until the very last moment, nor without bitter conflict. Three years ago, however, his case assumed prominence. At that time the Lacroix city tax bills had mounted up to some $30,000. He tried as usual to evade it, but Warmoth's free lancers were rough and hungry and they drove him hard.—At last, he gathered together the required amount, and, so rumor says, gave it to his son to make the settlement with. Here comes in the secret of the drama. They say the young man lost the money or was cheated out of it in some way, and weeks afterward the old man was made suddenly aware that the $30,000 was still unpaid and his property trembling in the balance. Then he broke down. It was hard enough for him to part with money at the best of times, and this disaster filled his cup. Report hath it that he cast the prodigal forth with curses, and from that moment fell into a stolid, obstinate inaction which nothing could arouse.—Numerous attempts were made to induce him into some measure of self-protection. Bankers, and brokers, who liked him as a relic of the good old times, wishing, perhaps, to make a reasonable profit on the job, offered the funds necessary to release his property. It was of no avail. At the beginning of the present year the bills, State and city, reached over $75,000, and at last, after more than three years of fortearance, the authorities moved, the hammer was uplifted, and Francois Lacroix's colossal fortune began to crumble.

A man about two-thirds drunk, and his back covered with mud, stopped a policeman on the street and asked to be locked up. 'Why, you are able to walk home, aren't you?' asked the officer. 'Yes, I could get home all right, but I don't want to, and you wouldn't if you had my wife! Take me down, ole feller, and if she comes inquiring 'round just say I've gone to Timbuctoo 'pursuit business.'—Detroit Free Press.

A fashionable but illiterate New York lady, traveling on the Continent, writes to a friend that she has just seen the 'museum of iniquities' in Genoa, and she does think it is 'perfectly splendid.'

A CAREFUL GIRL.

A blooming country damsel, dressed in the height of fashion, came tripping along in company with her beau, and, while crossing a street, turned suddenly around to look at a passing object, just as the tip of her dainty shoe rested on the curbstone of the gutter. As she threw the weight of her body on the insufficient foothold, her toe slipped, and plump into the dirt went her little foot, and splash over stockings and garments went the mud. Her gallant speedily helped her on to the sidewalk, where she presented a pitiable appearance, and then endeavored to free her from her sudden acquisition of soil with his handkerchief.

"It's no use Charley,' snubbed the rural beauty, 'it won't come clean; and—and—my state-stockings are ruined.

'Never mind the stockings,' consolingly responded her swain; 'I can buy you a new pair.'

'Buy me a new pair; where would I put them on?' said she.

'Why, we can go to a hotel for that matter,' replied Charley.

'Never!' almost screamed the frightened girl; 'I'd sooner jump into the river than go to a hotel with a man that I'm not married to.'

Charley seemed conscious-stricken as the enormity of his proposition flashed upon his mind, and when last we saw the pair they were in quest of a clean pair of hose, and a proper place to put them on.—Cin. Enquirer.

A REMARKABLE ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday night a freight train on the Vally railroad, approaching a trestle work four hundred feet long, below Woodstock, came across two horses on the track. The trestle is only crossed by a ten inch plank in the center, and across this the frightened animals dashed at full speed, the train in hot pursuit, and, through the night was pitch dark, they got safely over, one turned and got safely down the bank, but the other slipped on the track, and the engine passed over him, cutting him square in two. It is a mystery how the frightened animals, in the darkness of night, going on a run, followed by the shrieking locomotive, could have crossed a narrow walk way at a dizzy height, which it requires a man with a cool head to cross in the day time.—Staunton (Va.) Vindicator.

RAILROAD SIGNALS.—A Blue Flag by day, and Blue Lantern by night, when placed on the front of an engine, is to dicate that another engine is following; or a Blue Flag by day and Blue Lantern by night, when placed upon the track, are signals of caution, and engineer, on observing them, must proceed slowly.

A Red Flag by day, and a Red Lantern by night, when placed on the front of an engine, indicate that another engine is following closely, and section-masters and bridge-men must keep the track clear till the expected engine has passed.

A Red Flag by day, and a Red Lantern by night, when placed upon the track, are signals of danger, perceiving which, the engineer must stop the train and ascertain the cause.

Red Flags and Red Lanterns must never be used as signals of caution only, but always of danger.

THE MOUNT OF OLIVES.—The Mount of Olives has changed hands. The Countess de la Tour d'Auvergne, who lives at Jerusalem, has bought and handed it over to the French government. She is now erecting a convent on the spot where our Saviour prayed. The prayer is inscribed on the stone wall around the court yard in thirty-two languages. The Countess is a lady of immense wealth, and is as queer as she is wealthy. She lives in an old cottage of oriental style, with only a tortoise shell cat and a brown dog for her companions.

VETERAN JOKERS.

The Duke of Wellington and Lord Brougham were utterly unlike in temperament and tastes, and used to say sharp things to each other, though with perfect courtesy and good nature. Here is a specimen of their method of joking:

Lord Brougham, who invented the vehicle now known by his name, was met in the House of Lords by the Duke of Wellington, who, accosting him with a low bow, said—

"I have always been under the impression that your lordship would go down to posterity as the great apostle of education, the emancipator of the negro, the restorer of abused charities, the reformer of the law. But no—you you will hereafter be known only as the inventor of a carriage."

To this Brougham replied by reciting those things by which he had imagined the Duke would be remembered, adding—

'But no—your Grace will be known as the inventor of a pair of boots.'

The Duke was defeated and made strong remark about having forgotten the boots.

A shocking scene—Kerosene.

A STARTLING SCENE IN THE STREETS OF BALTIMORE.

About 11 o'clock on Saturday morning four wild cows were being driven along Charles street, and when crossing Baltimore street they escaped from the rope which bound them and from their drivers, and ran at a furious pace down Baltimore street, taking the full width of the street, tossing their heads and lashing their tails, as if in enjoyment of their newly acquired liberty. The streets at that hour were filled with pedestrians, who ran in affright into the adjacent stores for safety, while a large crowd of men and boys followed after the cattle. Two of the enraged animals turned down Light street toward the wharf, knocking down a lady and injuring her slightly. One continued down Baltimore street to Calvert, when it was caught and secured by Sergeant Parks, Officer Mitchell and several citizens. The other ran out North Calvert street, creating an alarm along that street, until Monument street was reached, which the animal selected as its route to the east, and no one interrupted its career until at Aisquith street, when a colored man named Alexander Freeman interfered with the further progress of the infuriated animal.

It made a sudden plunge at him, tossing him in the air and across the street upon the sidewalk. When he was reached it was found he had been terribly gored in the leg and abdomen. He was assisted to the house of his wife, in Jew alley, but she not being in, he was taken in a wagon to his mother's residence, No. 7 Spring Garden avenue, where he was attended by a number of physicians, who were of the opinion that his injuries were of a most serious character, he having been literally disemboweled. The wound extends some ten inches in length up the front of the abdomen and lower part of the stomach, and from this his intestines protruded. After goring Freeman the maddened animal rushed at a white man crossing the street, and tossed him in the air. The man came down again within reach of its horns, and was again tossed into the air, falling with violence upon the ground. The animal rushed at the man to toss him again, but his head struck the ground, and the force of its attempt threw it completely over, and while down a colored man named Frank Smith loosed the animal, while officer Carloss killed it with an ax.

BRICKS TWENTY CENTURIES OLD

A correspondent of the Cleveland Leader, writing from Persia, says: 'Coming from Bagdad, which, is a direct line, is forty-four miles distant, three immense mounds appear in succession, which have the appearance of natural hills. But close examination shows that they are composed of bricks, and are the remains of large buildings. These are on the east side of the Euphrates, and the largest is about one hundred and fifty feet in height. They are supposed to be an ancient citadel that defended this part of the town, the Royal Palace, and a Temple. How immense must the original buildings have been, when it is considered that these mounds have been the storehouses from which, for twenty centuries, bricks of the finest description have been taken to build the great cities of Ctesiphon, Seleucia, and Bagdad! Fragments of alabaster vessels and images, fine earthenware, marble, and great quantities of enameled tiles, the coloring and glazing of which are surprisingly fresh, can yet be found in these mounds. On the face of every brick is stamped, in cuneiform, the name and titles of Nebuchadnezzar. They are all laid face downward, and the cement in which they are imbedded is so hard that they can only be detached with the greatest difficulty.

A BORN CONTROVERSIALIST.

A short time since, says the Rochester Union, W. H. Dinehart, better known as "Cap," the peanut peddler, paid a small sum to the County Agricultural Society for the privilege of selling nuts at the fair to be held in a few days. "Cap" bid for the privilege of selling all kinds of nuts—and he insists that this includes dough-nuts. On going to the Treasurer, who is a lawyer, to pay his fee, he wanted mentioned in the contract dough nuts.

Treasurer—Why, you have no right to sell dough-nuts. That's an absurd claim.

"Cap."—Yes, I have. I bid for all kinds of nuts and I am going to sell dough-nuts.

Treasurer—You have no right to. Dough-nuts don't grow on trees.

"Cap.—Neither do peanuts, at least I never heard that they did.

This ended the dialogue, and "Cap" retired the victor, so far as the argument was concerned.

A traveler in Vermont, stopping at a hotel recently, ordered supper. The meal was a very inferior one, and at its conclusion, which was soon reached, he stepped up to settle for it. 'Well,' said Boniface, with alacrity, 'I hope you had a good supper.' 'Yes,' replied he, musingly, 'the supper averaged first rate; the butter was strong and the tea weak.

It is never too late to marry or to mend.

A MAD DRUNKWARD RUNS A MUCK.

A Fearful Scene On a Ferryboat.

The New York Herald of Tuesday says:

As the Hoboken ferryboat Chancellor Livingston was on her seven o'clock trip from Christopher street last evening an incident took place which spread wild alarm among the passengers. The cabins were full of people, and as the boat neared the Jersey side a stalwart man, about twenty-four years of age, rushed through the cabin to the forward part of the boat, brandishing a large knife and making lunges at several persons, shouting in a wild and incoherent manner, and threatening to kill every person he met. Some flew out of his way, others rushed into the cabins, while several of the ladies, imagining that something more serious had taken place, screamed fright and ran excitedly through the cabin. Several men endeavored to grasp the hands of the infuriated individual, but he sprang, tiger-like, from among them. Then, making a desperate plunge toward a man named Edward Crushell, he aimed the weapon at his breast. Crushell dodged, but was not quick enough to evade the blow, and he found the knife buried in his left arm. The maniac dragged forth his murderous weapon and set his eye upon another person in the crowd, when several passengers, realizing the plight in which they were placed, fell upon him, wrested the knife from his hands, after a sanguinary struggle, and held him fast until the boat reached the slip. The captive then grew quite calm, and was taken into custody by a policeman, who conveyed him to the station-house, followed by a large crowd of people. The prisoner gave his name as George Kolb. He is engaged in the oyster business, and resides in First street, Hoboken. His frenzy is ascribed to liquor, of which he had freely partaken in New York. The knife, which he bids fair to use so destructively, could not be found.

APPALLING CALAMITY.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Details continue to be received of the awful typhoon at Hong Kong and Macao September 28th. When the typhoon was raging, the pirates fired the city in six places for spoils. The Church of Saint Antonio and a large number of houses were burned. The whole of the Orago Grandes was burnt away. Some reports say that 10,000 persons have perished. In Macao alone the effluvium from the corpses became so unbearable that the soldiers revolted and refused to bury the dead. The Governor apprehending a pestilence cremated 4,000 of the corpses, first covering them with tar. A large number of Europeans have perished. The whole number killed will reach twenty thousand. An earthquake accompanied the typhoon. When the Alaska ran ashore she sunk with hundreds of Chinamen aboard. She struck the rocks with terrific force, but is believed not to be much damaged.

[Hong Kong is an island off the south-east coast of China, seventy-five miles from Canton, and belongs to Great Britain, having been ceded to it 1841. The general appearance of the island is unprepossessing, and lofty barren rocks rise from the sea to heights of 3,000 feet. Victoria, the capital, is on a magnificent bay which is generally crowed with shipping of nearly every nation. The population of the island is about 40,000, and many of the residents are Americans and Europeans. During 1852 over 30,000 Chinese embarked from Hong Kong for California. Typhoons in the China sea are of frequent occurrence and the evidences of their approach are often apparent twenty-four hours before their culmination.]

AN UNTIMELY INTERRUPTION.

[Coffeeville (Kansas) Courier]

The boys tell a good one on Jim Barndollar, of the Osage Agency. It seems he had sent his washing to a full blood Osage squaw, who was to have it done and bring it home on Saturday night. The squaw failed to fulfill the contract, however, and on Sunday Jim had to go to church with the same suit he wore during the week. In the meantime he had sent word to his washerwoman to "bring them shirts." He had just got comfortably seated in the church and the grave minister had opened up in thunder tones on sinners generally, when in stepped a big Osage Indian, with a package under his blanket, who began making all kinds of unintelligible signs to our friend. Jim appeared to take no notice of his presence, however, until by his audible whisper and frantic gesticulations the Indian had attracted attention of the entire congregation, and fairly horrified our hero by drawing forth a shirt with a stunningly clean front, several pairs of socks and other things that go to complete a fashionable young man's wardrobe. This was too much for him, and he immediately arose, and beckoning the persistent laundry clerk out, he then and there exhausted both the English and Osage vocabulary of epithets, after which he took charge of the clothes and told the dusky warrior to go his way. Profane language is prohibited at the Agency, but it is said that Jim made good use of all the emphatic religious adjectives that came within his grasp.

The editor of the Cape Ann Advertiser says that a clean shirt is one of woman's best gifts to man!—Boston Post.

ORGANIZATION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Armfield President of the Senate, Johnston Jones, Principal clerk, and P H Winston Jr. Assistant clerk.

Jas L. Robinson of Macon Speaker of the House. Election of clerks on Tuesday.

93 members of the House. A full quorum in both Houses.

A HAPPY OUTLOOK.

If we received the results of the late elections purely as a triumph of the Democratic party, our feelings would be those of exultation that a detested opposition had been overthrown and that a party long and ruthlessly trampled in the dust at length stood in the attitude of victor, jubilant over a prostrate foe. But in the light of the motives, the causes, and the actions which have wrought this stupendous reversal of the relations of parties, the feeling is one of heartfelt thankfulness, and of renewed hopefulness for the perpetuity of American institutions. The history of the country since the war has been one to weaken, if not destroy, all confidence in republican government. For the unchecked aggression of the Government at Washington upon the rights of the people, its contempt of all law, and open disregard of Constitutional restraints; its obliviousness to States Rights, and its steadfast march to a despotic centralization; its venality and its complicity with every scheme by which the public treasury was robbed and the country defrauded: and the more than patience of the people under tyranny and wrong; their tame submission to the violation of their rights; their ready; almost applauding acquiescence, in the oppression of their brethren of the South, all seemed to give token that the days of republican liberty were numbered, and that the battles for freedom had been fought in vain.

In looking back over the past, much allowance may be made for a people who entered upon the war with the one grand idea of preserving unbroken the stupendous fabric of national unity; and who, in pursuing their object, were willing to sacrifice for the time much of constitutional freedom, and much of personal liberty. Nor is to be wondered at, that when the war closed, in order to cement their victory, and perpetually secure that for which the war was conducted, they were persuaded that it was necessary still longer to withhold their hands from their liberties, to refrain for awhile the taking back of what they had yielded, and to suffer the military arm rather than the prescribed rules of civil law, to direct their destinies.

What abuses followed this permissive right, are matters of history; of a history of a nine years perversions of power and position that comprise the blackest pages of American annals. It is only necessary here to refer to this period, during which sectional rage warred against the sentiment of a comprehensive patriotism, and made the objects of the war nugatory, by making a restored Union an impossibility. For whatever of a Union there might be in name, there could be none in fact when the resources of party malignity were exhausted to create and foment the bitterest intensity of sectional hate. The last twelve months have exhibited the humiliating fact, that the country, up to this happy hour, when the tones of reprobation have been thundered from Massachusetts to Louisiana, and have reverberated from the shores of the Atlantic to the rugged fronts of the Rocky Mountains, was less in unison that at any time since the surrender of the Confederate armies. Party had driven out patriotism, military rule had over-ridden civil law, corruption had banished honesty, and the general subversion of public virtue had introduced anarchy, bankruptcy, commercial distress, and universal uncertainty and discontent.

That a people, cradled in liberty, and drawing in with their mother's milk the liveliest instincts of freedom, should quietly submit to enslavement, should at once forget their long taught lessons of private and public morality, should lower their high standard of patriotism, and withal, suffer the Union to perish; that a mere party should continue to flourish by false appeals to duty, and criminal distortion of motives and facts, could not be expected from the American people. Passion must at length subside, hate become at length appeased, and with the bitter remembrance of wasted years, and consciousness of ill directed vengeance, reason resumes its long suspended sway.

The whole land has spoken with one voice and to one purpose. It has not spoken in the interests of party alone. It demands that sectional hate shall cease; that the long suffering South shall have peace, that constitutional law shall take the place of arbitrary power, that honesty shall drive out corruption. It has decided that, almost in the language of Mr. Seward, the country cannot live half free, and half oppressed. That the broad mantle of a common flag shall cover the whole American Union, and that its folds may again in time, embrace a people one in heart as they are one in destiny.

We do not boast our victory as a Democrat simply. It has a higher and an ampler significance, and we extend the hand of brotherhood to Massachusetts as well to Louisiana, to the Republican as well as to the Democrat, to all who in the desperate extremity, came forward as patriots to wrest the country from the hands of misgovernment, and restore it to peace and harmony and prosperity.

INSIDIOUS OPPOSITION.

Those who advocate the call of a Convention have done so in no partisan spirit, but with the sincerest regard for the general good of the State which they honestly believe will be best promoted by the methods they suggest. In a question of that kind, they have expected opposition and have invited rather than avoided it, because they have been confident that full and free discussion would advance rather than retard their views.

But when we meet with opposition we expect to find it open, candid and manly. We have therefore seen with regret a paper of the extensive circulation and wide influence of the State Agricultural Journal resort to covert insinuation and damaging innendoes, the whole tendency of which is to stir up clash prejudices; and array pursuits and professions in hostile array. Why insinuate to the farmer that a Convention would be called without suggestions from his all-important branch of the body politic? Why instil into the mind of the mechanic that he has no participation in so important a movement? Why suggest to the working classes that they have raised no voice for the revision of the Constitution? Why intersperse through the columns of a Journal which enters with such glad welcome into so many quiet dwellings throughout the State, paragraphs which create doubt and hate and bitterness against a profession, of all others the least obnoxious to charges of infidelity to popular rights?

The farmer, and the mechanic and the working classes may not have moved in this thing, because it is not their habit of life to make themselves prominent in political movements. They have left it in charge of those whose familiarity with legal and constitutional precedents fit them for leadership.

It is the glory of the legal profession that from the very foundation of English law from which we borrow our own system it has been always the very foremost in the battle for popular rights and in the defence of Constitutional liberty. From the days of Runneymede when the first written charter was extorted from the Tyrant John; from the times of the first Charles when the encroachments upon the rights of the people were resisted literally to the death; from the times of the Second James when the attempted overthrow of the British Constitution was punished by the deposition of that monrch; from the time that the first resistance was made on this continent to British oppression, down to the present time the lawyer has been first and foremost in the attack, or defense. And not from mercenary motive, but because the study of his profession has familiarized him with the history of nations struggling for their freedom; has intensified his hatred of oppression; has enlarged his sympathies for human suffering; and has stored his mind with facts and precedents, essential weapons in his warfare against tyranny.

The lawyers are for Convention—Ah!" says the Journal, yes, it numbers among its advocates such men as Graham and Moore and Coningland, and Batchelor and Norwood, and a hundred others whom the people delight to honor and to trust, and if in opposition are found Eaton and Fowle and Venable, it only proves their freedom from professional bias, and their disinterested liberality of sentiment.

☞ Mr. Davis fears that a Convention if called will not have a majority of Conservatives in it? Why this fear? May it not be reasonably expected that the Conservatives will hold such majority, as they have had in the Legislature since 1870? Not so large, possibly, as in the present, but enough for all practical purposes. And besides, very many Republicans favor Constitutional reform, and would gladly join in the move, though the party, as such, is held back by its leaders.

☞ Gov. Graham in his argument in the Cloud and Wilson case incidentally touched with great point one of the objections to the present Constitution. It is its uncertainty. Up to the present time upwards of twenty five cases had gone up to the Supreme Court as questions of Constitutional construction. Under the old Constitutions such cases were rarely known. Fifty years would not make the Constitution of 1868 a clear or self-sustaining document.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR &C.

The work of Horace Greely in his grand campaign two years ago, the immediate results of which brought a triumph to his enemies, and apologetic vindication from his friends, were not after all without their glorious fruits. Who can say that the seed he then sowed broad cast, the generous sentiments of forgiveness, of justice, of a broad national feeling, have not had much to do with the late overthrow of sectional hate, this restoration of sympathetic unity, this perception of a common government? It cannot be denied, that for the past nine years, the people of the South have been as wanderers without a home; as outcasts without a country; as aliens without a flag, the stars and stripes have been to them badges of slavery, symbols of conquest, Tyranny, oppression, injustice, degradation had done their work. Quiet and submission, and eager as they have been to accommodate themselves to their hard lot, their toil has been cheerless and hopeless, with only a thought for the present and not a care for the future.

But a change has come over them, and if the voice of the elections at the North is really a confession of past injustice to the South, a recognition of many and grievous errors; if the words of Mr. Eaton before the Manhattan Club are really the proclamation of a restored brotherhood between the long alienated States, then indeed will the Southern States gladly seize the olive branch and again glory in the once proud name of American citizens.

☞ Mr. Venable thinks it dangerous to interfere too much with the fundamental law. Gov. Graham agrees with our old venerated Bill of Rights that "a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty." But the Constitution of '68, built upon the sands of party passions cannot be considered fundamental law, and the people must go back to "fundamental principles" before they can erect a substantial political edifice.

NEW ORLEANS, November 9.—Last evening Amos Simms, a negro, who was elected on the compromise ticket, was attacked by seven negroes in, Honma Terre Bonne parish. Simms ran, and being pursued, turned and fired upon the party, killing one and wounding another. Simms immediately surrendered himself and was sent to jail, and was guarded during the night by a squad of citizens. It is reported that threats were made yesterday to lay the town in ashes, but all was quiet there this morning.

ST. LOUIS, November 10.—Professor A. B. Smith says there are fully forty thousand people in Kansas and Nebraska who are either now or will shortly be in absolute want of the necessaries of life, and he earnestly appeals, not only to citizens of St. Louis, but to the people of the whole country, to send them aid in the shape of provisions and clothing as speedily as possible.

MILWAUKIE, Nov., 10.—Yesterday morning a woman named Steirman killed her son, thirteen years old, by breaking his skull with an axe, and then committed suicide by jumping into a cistern. The woman had been in bad health, and the act was committed during an attack of insanity, induced by fear that she would be separated from her child.

RICHMOND, Nov. 10.—1874. John C. Dull was sent to the Penitentiary for three years for swindling old man Fowlkes.

Commissioner Gillette rendered his decision at Mobile yesterday in the Wetmore case, saying there was no evidence against the prisoners, and they were therefore honorably discharged.

MILWAUKIE, Nov. 10 Later returns from the Eight Congressional district which comprises the remote nothern counties of this state, indicate the election of Cole, Democrat, over McDill, by about 100 majority. This leaves the Wisconsin delegation five Republicans and three Democrats.

WORCESTER MASS; Nov. 10.—On Saturday at Central Village, near Plainfield, Connecticut, a boy of twelve years shot his brother, aged two years, dead, on the spot, and wounded his sister so severely that she is not expected to live. The deed was done with an old gun which was left loaded in a bedroom.

It is believed that Butler will vigorously press his civil rights bill in Congress this winter, and some republicans are confident that before the democrats assume control of the House of Representatives it will become a law.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A mutiny occurred at sea on board the ship Neptune, October 20th. One-half of the crew were colored, and the white sailors revolted because Stephen A. Smith (colored) was made boatswain. The white sailors, on the night of the 20th, of October, beat Smith in a fearful manner. The entire crew were arrested to-day.

LITTLE ROCK: November 11.—Gov. Baxter, in his message to the legislature today, congratulates the people on regaining control of their own affairs, and deprecates proscription towards any class; refers with pride to the new constitution, and urges many reforms; disclaims any idea on the part of the State to repudiate any just debts, and recommends provisions looking to the funding of the outstanding indebtedness. He also recommends a revision of the common school system, and other measures of importance.

BATON, November 11.—Butler is preparing a letter claiming he was betrayed by his friends, promising uncomfortable revelations and threatening to form a new party in Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, November 11.—Supporting the sheriffs in Louisiana, there are twenty-eight companies of infantry, four of cavalry and one of artillery; all Federal soldiers. General Sherman thinks they could find better employment fighting Indians on the frontier.

COLLISION ON THE CHESAPEAKE BAY!

Sinking of the Steamer Louisiana in Forty-Two Feet Water!

RALEIGHITES ABOARD—ALL PARTIES SAVED!

The following dispatch was received in this city yesterday evening, from a well-known gentleman of this place who was on the ill-fated boat:

BALTIMORE, Md; Nov. 14, '74.

A collision occurred last night on the Bay at 1:25 o'clock, a. m; between the Bay Line Steamer Louisiana and a Charleston steamer. The Louisiana went down in forty-two feet water in about fifty minutes after being struck. The collision occurred half-way between Norfolk and Baltimore. No lives were lost. Capt. Mayo and the other officers of the boat behaved nobly, being as brave, cool and collected as if nothing had happened. We reached this city to-day at 2 p. m; all hands being well.

By a private letter received here we learn that General R. E. Colston, formerly of this city, but now in the service of the Rhedive of Egypt, is in command of an exploring and military expedition into the region of Darfour, and is expected to be absent about twelve months. He is to leave Cairo on the 15th inst.—Star.

Death of W. J. Green.

The Durham Tobacco Plant announces the death of Mr. W. J. Green brother of the editor of that paper and, for two years an associate editor, Mr. Green was in his 24th year. He fell a victim to consumption. He bore the character of a man exemplary in all his relations to society, honest, upright and sincere, correct in habit and principle, and liberal energetic and useful as a citizen. His friends and the community in which he lived have sustained by his death a serious loss.

Mr. Green was the son of Mager Green, and was born in Person County Feb 24th 1851.

Mr. John Lipscomb of this County died at his residence near Little River on Sunday the 8th inst. Mr. Lipscomb was we think about 54 years of age.

Martinsville Courier.

We are in receipt of this very pleasant and well conducted paper just started in Martinsville, Henry Co. Va by Messrs W. A. & J. C. Griffith Henry County, so famous for its unequalled tobacco is intitled to a trumpet for its excellencies, and we are glad it has found a blower in our friends Griffith. May they succeed to their full expectations.

We regret to learn of the destruction by fire of the handsome residence of the widow of Andrew Polk Esq. together with all its contents of costly furniture, near Columbia Tenn. The building was occupied by the widow and family of Capt. Robin Jones, dec'd formerly of Hillsboro, and all will sympathize with those upon whom this loss falls so heavily.

We notice that the Raleigh CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE is to be issued as a Daily during the session of the Annual Conference of the M. E. Church, South, which convenes in Raleigh on the 2nd of December. The approaching session will be an important and interesting one, and the Daily ADVOCATE will be a convenient mode of communication with those who are interested in the doings of the Conference. It will contain full reports of the proceedings as they occur, condensed reports of discussion and sermons, church and miscellaneous news and other interesting matter. It will be issued to subscribers during the session, which will last a week or more, for 30 cents, postage prepaid at Raleigh.

Election of Judge Moore in the Third Judicial District.

We conclude the opinion given in case of Settle Cloud who brings action against Thomas J. Wilson, Judge of the 8th Judicial district upon that his election was illegal.

Judge Moore decided 1st. That the words of the Constitution Article 4 Sec. 31 "all vacancies occurring in the offices provided for by this article of the Constitution shall be filled by appointment by the Governor, unless otherwise provided by the Constitution" refers to a vacancy happening after an office has been filled by the incumbent, and not the failure of a person to qualify who never did qualify, although elected as Judge, and who was holding the office at that time incompatible with the one to which he was elected, did not constitute such vacancy.

2nd. In regard to the abolition of Judges into two classes: The Judges of the Supreme Court who had qualified (if a majority of the whole number,) could proceed with and superintend the election as the requirement of Art. 4. Sec. 29 of the Constitution is directory and not imperative requiring the attendance of the Chief Justice and the four Associate Justices, but it is not seen how one not then a Judge could be allowed to say terms.

3rd. In regard to the time for which an appointment by the Governor to a vacancy shall hold, and the construction to be put on the words, "shall hold until the next general election;" it is considered that the words "next general election" refers to an election of Judges which, by Sec. 29 of Art. 4 of the Constitution was to occur every four years. It is considered that the words "until the next general election cannot be extended into any such construction" as have the same meaning as "for the unexpired term." The provisions are distinct, for different offices and purposes.

By Art. 4. Sec. 32, it is provided "the officers elected at the first election under the Constitution shall hold their offices for the term prescribed respectively next ensuing after the next election for members of the General Assembly, but their terms shall begin upon the approval of this Constitution by the Congress of the United States." No one not elected at the first election could make any claim to hold for a term of eight years after the 1st Thursday in August 1870 which has been decided to have been the next regular election for members of the General Assembly. The term of the men appointed could begin "upon the approval of this Constitution by Congress" as Sec. 32 prescribes the beginning and end of this term and Sec 31, the time when successors are to commence the discharge of their duties, viz; when the regular election for Judges which, was expected to occur every four years, should take place, and distinguished from the regular elections for members of the Legislature, to occur every two years.

It is therefore adjudged that John M. Clemmons not entitled to the office of Judge of the 8th Dist. That Thomas J. Wilson was duly elected, and that this action be dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff and claimant, to be taxed by the clerk.

Appeal taken to Supreme Court.

Orange at Salisbury and Charlotte.

Mr. James Norwood at both of these Fairs bore the banners of Old Orange triumphantly. He received premiums on the Best cotswold Buck, the best cotswold Ewe, and the 2 best cotswold lambs, on the best southdown Buck, the best Ewe and lamb; Best broad mare and colt (Rebecca and Lady Lucy by her side); best 2½ year old stallion, Red Bird; best native hay, best clover, best rye, best white oats, best black do; in all $94, not including trials of speed. The premiums were all paid before midday of the Fair to cent. Other Fairs should do likewise and then consult the farmers interest, and their own good name.

At the new Fair of the Carolinas at Charlotte, Mr. N. gets premiums for his Cotswold and Southdown Sheep, for Rebecca, Lady Lucy and Red Bird, and on grasses and grain amongst other prizes, he took a silver service valued at $35.

THE AMERICAN FARMER FOR NOVEMBER is at hand, replete with instructive matter for the farmer, the gardener, the stock-raiser and every other ruralist.

This is a solid and substantial farm journal, which while showing the latest advances made in science as applied to agriculture is at the same time devoted to the practical. A large number of contributors from all sections and in every branch lend their aid in making up a number of great value. The publishers, Saml Sands & Son, Baltimore, Md., offer some handsome premiums for clubs for the new volume, and will send the last three numbers of this year free to new subscribers. $1.50 a year, or, five copies for $5. Specimens free on application.

William Huntington.

We transfer from the Marion Ala. Commonwealth the notice of the death of this venerable gentleman which will be read with regret by many old citizens among us. Mr. Huntington was a native of this place and lived here, respected by all, until about the year 1834 he removed to Alabama. He left behind him the character of a good honest, christian man, and lived in the affectionate remembrance of those he left to mind in the land of his nativity, the character he formed here, he maintained in his new home, which the following account verifies:

Died, in Marion, Ala, on the 27th day of October, 1874, WILLIAM HUNTINGTON, aged 82 years, 1 month, and 10 days.

Mr. Huntington was born in Hillsboro, North Carolina, on the 8th day of September, 1792, and when about forty years of age, moved to Marion, Ala; where he resided until the day of his death—a period of about forty-two years. On the 16th day of February, 1834, he joined the Presbyterian Church in Marion, and ever since that time had occupied the position of Ruling Elder thereof, and ever prompt in the discharge of his duty, regarding it as one that could not be dispensed without doing violence to his own feelings.—He was ardently and devotedly attached to his church and to the cause of the Master. He was a kind, clever, true, Christian gentleman, and none knew him but to love him. The entire community mourns the loss it has sustained in the death of Mr. Huntington. He was one of our oldest and best citizens.

Mr. Huntington was buried yesterday in the cemetery, in the presence of a large number of sorrowing relations and friends. His aged and bereaved companion has upwards of fifty years and one have the heartfelt sympathy of our entire community. May he rest in peace.

Meeting of Commissioners of the Town of Hillsboro.

At a meeting of the Board on Friday night the 13th inst. present, the Mayor, A. C. Murdock and D. C. Parks, E. H. Pogue, H. N. Brown, A. W Graham, and David Anderson.

The proceedings of last meeting were read. The Chairman of the Committee on Town property reported progress, and asked leave for further time, which was granted. The committee on the grave yard reported on the petition of Henry Richards which report was recommitted.

Mr. Graham from the committee of Finance reported sundry accounts passed upon by the Committee, which were allowed by the board.

The report of the committee to examine into the accounts of the town constable was read, and after lengthened discussion the subject was postponed until the meeting of the board on the 30th inst.

On motion, the town pump was ordered to be put in order immediately.

We were present at the above meeting and give only a meager outline of what was done by the board. For good reasons we have condensed. Suffice it to say, that as we have often borne heavily on the Commissioners for neglect of duty, we will here do them justice to say that the blame has not been theirs. There is good reason to say that the future promises better, and the interests discussed at the meeting show an enlightened and liberal spirit, with a very sincere desire and earnest determination on the part of the board to do all for the good of the town their means will admit.

Texas Correspondence.

HOUSTON TEXAS Oct. 17th, 1874

The planters of Texas are tired of Northern labor which as a general thing is totally unreliable.

They have been trying to get along with it ever since the war; and, at last having despaired of success, they are about making a combined effort to bring into the State a class of white labor which is both skilled and can be relied on—aided by the liberality of the International and great Northern Railroad; the people along the line of five hundred miles of its road have undertaken an enterprise which will no doubt result in bringing them thousands of good laborers and tenants by time to commence putting in the crops in January.

The different counties along the line have each appointed a delegate to go out into the South Eastern States and make contracts with people to come here, supplying them with advance money when necessary. These delegates will leave together on an excursion train which starts on the 12th of Nov. and will go as far as Atlanta, Georgia.

Remaining there two weeks, it will give the delegates time to scatter out through the States of Mississippi Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and North and South Carolina, and find people who are willing to come. Through the exertions of the International and Great Northern Railroad, the fare for these incoming people has been reduced 1-3 cents per mile, so that it will cost the Emigrant from——only about——dollars to get into the heart of the richest cotton growing section of Texas, besides having a liberal advance of money, and good and well specified terms from the land owner here.

About fifty delegates will go, and they will visit all the principal places in the States mentioned. To those wishing to come to a new, growing and bountifully producing country, there can be no better opportunity than this.

So watch out for the Texas delegates.

Married.

In this place on the 3rd inst, at the residence of the bride father by the Rev. J. T. Harris, Miss HATTIE REESE, to Mr. D. S. WATT, of Raleigh.

NORTH CAROLINA AT THE ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION.

The Raleigh News says, at the Grand Exposition of the Northwestern States, held recently at St. Louis, the only article on exhibition from North Carolina was a bale of cotton exhibited by Mr. I. J. Pearce, of Nash county, which was entered for the $1,000 premium ... made in the United States.

There were ... 150 bales of cotton ... competition ... ed. The ... fair and equal ... committee of cotton ... to select from the whole ... bales. After going over all the cotton ... sub-committee selected thirty for the inspection of the committee. Mr. Pearce's bale was one of the thirty. The committee then proceeded to select the three best from the thirty bales. Mr. Pearce's North Carolina bale was one of the three. Finally one of the three bales was thrown out and the contest narrowed down to a fight between North Carolina and Louisiana. After a lengthy consultation the committee declared that they could not decide as to the difference in the quality of the two, and finally determined to ballot between the two for the premium. Of course, Louisiana won it by the vote, as all the cotton used in the Western States is transported from New Orleans by the Mississippi direct, and North Carolina does not sell a bale.

We were shown yesterday by Mr. J. G. McPheeters, who was present at the Exposition, and who has just returned from an extended tour in the Western States, a sample of both the North Carolina and Louisiana cotton, and if they were not marked in separate envelopes, we seriously doubt whether Mr. McP. (one of the best cotton experts in this country) could tell one from the other.

The people of our State should feel themselves under obligations to Mr. Pearce, who at great trouble and expense, has brought prominently before the whole country the great value of our lands that can produce cotton equal to that on exhibition by Mr. Pearce, that is, if they use the same care, plant good seed, &c.

FATTENING HOGS.

The suggestions regarding fattening hogs will tend to facilitate the work:

"Fat is simply carbon, which nature stores in the animal system for definite purposes, and one of the principal purposes is animal heat. The body must be kept at a certain temperature, and the consumption of carbon is just in proportion to this demand. If an animal be exposed to the cold without protection, nature meets the increased demand for warmth by drawing on the store of fat in the system. Hence I will name as the first essential in fattening, a dry and warm place for the stock. The second essential is to feed such grain as contains the largest amount of fattening material. By analysis this is found to be corn. It may be fed exclusively, except such change as necessary is to keep up the appetite. Avoid over feeding at any time; or the digestion may be broken down before the animal is fattened. Cook the corn. It will add about twenty-five per cent. to its value. The cobs will more than do the cooking if a sorghum pan be used. It may be objected to this plan if fattening that it requires too much labor, but any who will make a judicious trial of it will find that he has saved labor, time and money.

A FUNERAL EXTRAORDINARY.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "A most successful funeral in which women played an important part took place at Padua in 1518, and, indeed, in some respects, the arrangements of this funeral were in all ways less depressing than the run of ordinary burials. An eminent lawyer, by name Ledovich Cartusius, who died in July of that year, before his death strictly forbade his relations to shed any tears at his funeral, and enforced this order on his heir by a heavy penalty in case of disobedience. He further directed that fiddlers should take the place of mourners on the sad occasion, and that twelve maids in green habits should carry his remains to the Church of St. Sophia, where he was buried, the ceremony to be enlivened by songs from these ladies, who were to be recompensed for the service by a handsome sum of money allotted for their marriage portions. The monks of the convent at Padua, who were invited to the funeral, were on no account to wear black habits, lest they should throw a gloom over the cheerfulness of the processions."

A rich but parsimonious old gentleman, on being taken to task for his uncharitableness, said: "True. I don't give much, but if you only knew how it hurts when I give anything, you wouldn't wonder."

An inquiring man thrust his fingers into a horse's mouth to see how many teeth he had. The horse closed his mouth to see how many fingers the man had. The curiosity of each was fully satisfied.

THE NORTH CAROLINA MANUAL.
PUBLISHED by authority and under the auspices of the General Assembly, will now soon be issued under the direction of the Secretary of State; the material for which has been collected and prepared by John H. Wheeler, Esq.
It presents in condensed form the dates and events of the State, from the earliest period of its history to the present day, and the names of those whether in the Executive, Judicial or Legislative Departments, who have done the State some service; with valuable Statistical and Chronological tables connected with the State and Federal Government, which will be found useful as a hand book of reference to all public men, and men of business.
The price of the book is $1,00, bound in cloth. When sent by mail postage to be added.
Agents are wanted in every county of the State to sell this book.
Editors copying this advertisement and sending a copy of the paper to me, will have a copy of the book sent to them.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
